

Dr. Kendall Ho

Emergency Room Physician & iCON Executive Director

Dr. Kendall Ho is an emergency medical specialist, a professor in the UBC Faculty of Medicine Department of Emergency Medicine, and leads the Digital Emergency Medicine Unit. He is the medical director of Healthlink BC physician program. He conducts digital health research in home health monitoring, data analytics, virtual care, and raising digital health literacy.

He is a member of the BC Digital Health Clinical leadership committee, Health Canada Scientific Advisory Committee on Digital Health Technologies, National Research Council Medical Devices Research Advisory Council to support policy innovations in digital health.

He chairs the Canadian Association of Emergency Medicine Digital Emergency Medicine Committee, and is a member of the Canadian Virtual Care Task Force, the International Medical Informatics Association Telehealth Working Group, and the International Federation of Emergency Medicine Novel and Advanced Technologies Special Interest Group.

Dr. Ho's digital health work has been recognized with provincial and national awards.

Session: Managing health emergencies at home

Objectives:

1. Tips from an Emergency Physician: time matters during a stroke
2. How your phone/device can help you store health information
3. Using digital health to access to resources and healthcare providers

Date: Day 1 – Saturday, March 26, 2022